

WEEKLY NEWSLETTER

March 21st-March 25th

We launched this week by picking one character trait to focus on. The Eagles decided that in their week of preparation for the exhibition they wanted to focus on grit, and at the end of the week we crowned one Eagle the grit hero! We celebrated the spring equinox early in the week as well by having a ladybug celebration! Also to prepare for spring, we've been weeding our garden and getting it ready for planting.

For those of you following along with March Mammal Madness, we are now officially through round 1! A few of the Eagles have pulled ahead, but we're still early in the game and anyone could win.

Discussions

We had lots of good discussions this week, one of them being a town hall! We discussed the rules of engagement and how we can better follow them, deciding that we are going to elect a ROE hero each week to help keep us on track! The foundation discussed some ways to keep the whole studio focused, wanting to make sure that everyone has the time and space they need to complete their work –especially leading up to the Exhibition. The Foundation also participated in a Narina Tea Party this week! For read aloud, the Foundation is reading The Chronicles of Narnia, and each time they finish a book they host a tea party to celebrate!

← Art!

Writers workshop

For Writers workshop, the Navigators and Launchpad finished researching and writing all their articles for Journalism as well as doing a deep self edit. The Foundation are working on Mystery Writing; this week finishing their drafts and finalizing their stories for a read aloud around the (fake)fire at the Exhibition!

Quest

In quest this week, the Foundation and Navigator continued to analyze mold on bread and started teeth mark analysis for Detective Science. In Medical Biology, the Launchpaders are continuing to work on diagnosing patients and preparing their presentation on a system of the body for the Exhibition!

History and Art

In History this week, the Navigators and Launchpad continued studying the politics of the Vietnam War for the Modern World History badge. The Foundation continued learning about the Greeks and created scratch art to mimic traditional Greek pottery for the activity! Art for everyone this week was straw weaving and finger knitting for the fiber art session!

The Eagles are excited to show you all what they've been working on at The Exhibition of Learning, showing lots of grit and pushing themselves this week. Look forward to reading Mystery stories around the fire and a puppet show by Foundation, solving a crime with Navigator, and real time patient diagnosing with Launchpad.

